“ Gladys was a true lady, and I always enjoyed sitting and chatting with her when we would all be at Steve and Kathy's when Grat and Stephanie were small. She and I shared many laughs, May your memories of her be a comfort, and may the legacy of her life be exhibited in her descendants for generations to come.

“ My dear Aunt Gladys....the memories I have of visiting her and Uncle Joe at the 'house on the hill' are some of the fondest family memories I have. For me, she was always a light in our family....a voice of reason when so often there was no other. I remember her taking me to church and, ultimately sharing that faith with me....telling stories....giving hugs.... encouraging me to continue to live my life in the best way I canand helping to bridge the chasm which existed between my own mother and me. The tears I shed for you come from deep within my heart. May your last journey find you surrounded by the grace and light of the God you loved so much.

“ As my mom's youngest sister, she was the last living direct blood relative to my West Virginia heritage. A connection with all of its meanings and mysteries I have always cherished. Hard working, proud, strong opinions. Way back and up into those beautiful mountains. I loved that even though my mom didn't seem to much. I remember lying in bed at Aunt Gladys' house as a young boy 9 or 10 and her telling me all kinds of bed time stories. She seemed so young and full of devilish spirit. I remember her husband Joe. Did he work for Montgomery Ward? Anyway she touched me deeply then and much much later when I visited her with my wife and tried to get her to tell me stories about her early life growing up. My sister Teri was able to gather more stories from her and other members of the Lester family. May her journey continue in light and love. This poem by Louise McNeill "West Virginia" catches my feelings of those days up in the mountains at family reunions: Where the mountain river flows And the rhododendron grows Is the land of all the lands That I touch with tender hands; Loved and treasured, earth and star, By my father's father far-- Deep-earth, black-earth, of-the-lime From the ancient oceans' time. Plow-land, fern-land, woodland shade, Grave-land where my kin are laid, West Virginia's hills to bless-- Leafy songs of wilderness; Dear land, near land, here at home-- Where the rocks are honeycomb, And the rhododendrons . . . Where the mountain river runs.
