“ So sorry to hear of aunt Imogene's death. My heart and thoughts go out to all the family and friends. I find comfort in the scriptures found at: John 11: 11-14 . Jesus said his friend had died and defined death as being asleep waiting for a resurrection !
I send my love and deep sympathy , Duke .

“ From the day I was born, my Aunt Imogene was very special in my life. She was one of the first people to "visit" me in the hospital where I was born, my mother's delight and joy as both sister-in-law and close friend and confidant, and she's the one who snapped the picture of me that my mother best loved - I was shoveling some dirt with a little spade (Aunt Imogene was a gardener of true passion) and she said, "Baby, what are you doing over there?" I said, "I'm digging this dirt like it's never been dug before!" She grabbed the camera, and that was one of my mom's favorite memories of me as a child.

Thank you, Aunt Imogene, for helping instill my love of gardening. Aunt Imogene had an infectious laugh and seemed to find some humor in nearly all situations. Aunt Imogene was also a symbol of true glamour in my eyes as I grew up, watching her get ready for a date with her Jim, eyes sparkling as she waited for him to pick her up. Their marriage was also a strong influence in my life, and I credit in large part my own happy marriage to the example that Aunt Imogene showed of how to love your husband and care for your children. I pray that her memory will remain sharp and vivid for the rest of my life because my memories of her are among the best any person could have. Gail and Jimmy, I pray for comfort and peace in your hearts, and for your children and grandchildren, too. You had two of the finest people I have ever known in my life for parents, and now they are reunited in Heaven. Our loss, Heaven's gain. I love you.

Jean and Jim Carbaugh were my next door neighbors when I was growing up in Maple Acres in the 1950's and 60's. You could not ask for a better neighbor neighbor. Jean was a devought Christian and a devoted wife and mother. She was an excellent housekeeper and cook. I can still remember her amazing pies. She didn't limit her domestic talents to the inside of the home either. She mowed along side Jim when it was lawn moving day. I've never seen that since, a husband and wife mowing side by side. They were devoted to one another. Jean raised two fine children: Jimmy and Gail. My heart goes out to them and Jean's grandchildren at this difficult time.
