I will never forget me and Cathy going to her house to pick her and her husband up. we stayed the night and she had a toy train in the room where me and Cathy slept and she pulled a prank on us and turned the train set on. it was so sweet when she said night coffe and he said i think night Mary love you, she said love you to. then when we left we all held hands and prayed on her house. cathy was driving 90 miles an hour and it was pouring the rain down and they were hanging on for dear life in the back seat. she was the sweetest lady and i was so glad that i had the opportunity to meet her, she made me feel so welcome at her house. we know this one thing that she is where she always wanted to go one day. and i know she always worried about cathy. she loved her family. prayers out to her family. karen sellards, cathy's best friend.
