“ My dad was more than just a dad,he was my best friend,my go to guy whenever or wherever I needed him.He was my teacher that taught me how to survive,how to use my hands to get things done.I can remember when I was just a pup,and he was trying to teach me something, I just wanted to go and play,hindsight,I didn't realize even then that I was absorbing all the knowledge my pop had to offer.Thank you dad, I love you,and most of all,I'm sure gonna miss you..... Your son Stevie

Earlier today I was reflecting on fond memories of my larger than life Uncle Bill. Two things were constant in all my memories. His smile and his suspenders. No matter the occasion both were always present. Uncle Bill lived life on his own terms and I will miss him.

What an amazing legacy and what a blessing it was to have you as a father. You never met a stranger, always had a smile, and always offering a helping hand. You touched so many peoples lives. My heart is breaking, but I will treasure your memory forever. I know that you will be my guardian angel walking beside me, unseen and unheard, and always near to me. I will never forget you and will love you always
